About Bottelsen American Dart Lines, Inc.

Bottelsen American Dart Lines, Inc., one of the few remaining dart manufacturers in the U.S.A., has designed and manufactured championship quality darts and accessories for over forty years.

In 1977, owner Walt Bottelsen revolutionized dart design with the invention of the Hammer Head® No Bounce Dart™. This dart virtually eliminated bounce outs. The Hammer Head® No Bounce Dart™ remains the standard of quality against which all other darts are measured.

Four U.S. and World Champions used Bottelsen Darts in their championship competition. In 1998, Perry Prine broke the World Record for most Bulls-Eyes thrown in a 10-hour period, using Bottelsen Hammer Head® G.T.® darts! The former record was held by Jimmy Damore who had also used Bottelsen Hammer Head® darts in his record-setting effort.

In 1998, 22 years after its invention, the Hammer Head® was chosen by the Wall Street Journal to be their Official Dart for the Wall Street Journal's 100 Investment Dartboard competition. Holding more patents on darts and related products than any other company in the world, Bottelsen continues to lead in the research, design and manufacture of innovative darting products for the professional and mass market!

Tungsten is used in dart production because of its high weight in volume. The higher the percentage of tungsten used to make a dart, the slimmer and sleeker the dart. The Devastators™ line is made from 95% virgin tungsten which allows for an extremely slim and short barrel for its weight. Available with smooth, coarse, Edge Grip™, and Gorilla Grip™ finishes, you will devastate the competition!
